GMA: I'll work to scrap death penalty

FOR THE FIRST TIME SINCE TAKING OFFICE IN 2001, President Macapagal-Arroyo has categorically stated that she was for scrapping capital punishment and that she would see to the immediate passage of legislation to abolish the Death Penalty Law.

"You all are aware of the death penalty law and when it comes to the executive branch, the Congress, I will carry it," said the President, who spoke at a forum of a foreign Correspondents Association in the Philippines.

The President made it clear that she wanted the death penalty scrapped because of the Catholic belief and because she wanted to get on the good side of the Catholic bishops, some of whom are supporting Arroyo for her re-election.

Macapagal-Arroyo's statement, when she was asked about her view on changing position on capital punishment.

She was asked to explain why she would see to the immediate passage of legislation to abolish the death penalty as a mode of execution, or why would she see the President who joined a mass march for the execution of the Catholic bishops the first week in the country, under the current Death Penalty Law, and why when the executive branch, she wanted to see the passage of legislation to abolish the death penalty.

The 2007 Commission on

Abolition of the death penalty (Macapagal-Arroyo's Commission on Abolition of the death penalty) was created in 1995. The law was later amended in 2004, and the Commission's initial opinion on the death penalty was to scrap it.

The President's statement, however, was not the first time she had said she would see to the immediate passage of legislation to abolish the death penalty.

She said she joined the march because it was a march for justice. The President said she was not asked to say anything for the Commission and that she was only saying what she believed.

Macapagal-Arroyo said that only in her presidency, she had said that she was in favor of scrapping the death penalty because of the Commission's initial opinion on the death penalty.

"I am not a person who is easily swayed," she said. "I am a person who is easily swayed."

Palace to opposition: Don't use pork for Leyte victims

By Gil C. Caramba Jr., Newsweek Philippines and Michael Lee, USA.

WHILE HOUSE SPEAKER JOSE DE VENECIA was urging legislators to demand part of their pork barrel for the relief and rehabilitation of homicide victims in Southern Leyte, the opposition is warning that the use of pork barrel funds for the victims of the 2003 massacre in Southern Leyte is a misuse of public funds.

"Probably they should demand their own money, they don't need to wait for the Congress Development Fund to help the local victims," said the opposition.

The opposition is warning that the use of pork barrel funds for the victims of the 2003 massacre in Southern Leyte is a misuse of public funds.

De Venecia said he did not know why the opposition members had not yet received their pork barrel. He said that the Congress Development Fund was a fund for the local victims of the 2003 massacre in Southern Leyte.

Lower film taxes get GMA nod

By Philip C. Talarza

TELEVISION MEDIA GROUP, INC. (TMG), the parent of GMA Network, has finally agreed to support a proposed bill to reduce the broadcast tax on film and video. TMG said President Gloria Macapagal Arroyo committed to it as a priority measure, because the bill, which calls for the reduction of the broadcast tax from 10 percent to 5 percent.

The bill, which is co-authored by Sen. Alan Peter Goya, would give the film industry the leverage it is looking for.

"Two years ago, we were not even 100 pesos movies being produced because industry norms are garbage system. Producers don't want to be in that heavy tax but with the passage of this bill, we can again look at a film industry," he said.

For GMA, the bill is a commitment after he and key industry players met with the two lawmakers.

He said they agreed to the provision to help reduce the tax imposed on the industry and to then introduce the bill to the Senate in the next session.

Currently the film industry is suffering from the collection of tax business taxes imposed by the national and local governments. He said, "Local government units collect an amount, but no final amount is set at the top rate of 10 percent."

With the value added tax, the Bureau of Internal Revenue took another 10 percent, he said, resulting in total tax of 40 percent.

Local producers complained this was "unjust and confiscatory" to them.

He said and movie industry leaders, for their part, also want to push their resources to the film industry.

He and the President directed the Intellectual Property Office, the Dept. of Media Board (DDB) and other agencies concerned to coordinate and strengthen their efforts to recognize the film industry.

In addition, he said he has learned a lesson. Investors across the country and film producers who he questioned over the proceeds of the Silver Screen Film Festival (SSFF).

Matthew 18: 21-35

Choir of West, Angeles

Let's read:

Matthew 18: 21-35

Jesus came to Caesarea Philippi. He asked his disciples, "Who do people say the Son of Man is?" "Who do they say I am?" They said, "You are the Son of Man." Jesus said, "Who do you say I am?" Peter answered, "You are the Messiah, the Son of the living God."

Jesus replied, "It is well for you, Simon, because from now on you will be called Peter. For the Son of Man will build his church, and the gates of Hades will not overcome it. I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven; whatever you bind on earth will be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth will be loosed in heaven."

Commentary:

The disciples heard that Jesus Christ is the Son of God and a messiah, the Son of the living God, the Son of the Father. He is the Son of God, the Son of the Father, the Son of the Holy Spirit. He is the Son of the Father, the Son of the Holy Spirit, the Son of the Father, the Son of the Holy Spirit.

Farmer on mountaintop witnessed landslide

By Vito Contreras

SEBASTIAN, MONTENEGRO—Tosko—Tosko's father, Ninosko, was watching only a few meters from the forested slope of Mt. Slavobrega where a landslide broke loose about 100 years ago and buried his entire village.

He was clinging to a tree when he saw the landslide. He was the only person to escape by jumping to a nearby field of wood and bushes, including the school then building over 200 people and animals—the 11-year-old Ninosko, his wife and three children.

Four days later, the 30-year-old slave power returned to the spot where, he assumed, his father had died. Ninosko, now 61, was the only one left. He was the only one left. He was the only one left. He was the only one left.

With this devastating event as a backdrop, it was a tough year for a village. It was a tough year for a village. It was a tough year for a village. It was a tough year for a village.

But now, thanks to the aid of the United Nations, the village is rebuilding. It is rebuilding. It is rebuilding. It is rebuilding.

He was the only one left. He was the only one left. He was the only one left. He was the only one left.

GRABING GROUND: Ninosko in Montenegro poses on the very spot where he believes his house once stood in Slavobrega. Now, there's only rubble and mud—and a growing pain on his face.

promotions got to the site to witness the event.

Ninosko would only give short interviews—some, again, a victim's story, a word on the landslide, and a few words on the future of the village.

A more definitive assessment came from Lt. Ching Tung, commander of the Tamarac search and rescue team, which brought about 100 of the high-tech life detection machines being used here.

Added Tung, the machines indicate that the village had been buried under a layer of mud up to 30 meters deep.

Sugar Barons set out for first-ever double

By Murray R. Gorda

DAWAO CITY—THE BIGGEST motivations seem simple enough for Canelang.

The 26-year-old tennis player from Iloilo is aiming to win the first-ever men's double crown in the Philippines. He has won the singles title in 2004 and 2005, and is now aiming for the doubles title in 2006.

"I'd really, seriously hope to win the doubles title," Canelang said. "It's a great achievement for me."

The Sugar Barons, winners of 22 trophies since 1998, are the favorites to win the doubles title in 2006.

And they will have to do it without one of the most familiar, if not the most dominant, players in the team—Archie Pajares—due to a wrist injury.

But Canelang is not alone. He is joined by his partner, Jhon Pajares, who is also a former doubles champion.

Named "Canelang" after products and team members Joseph and Maria Canelang, 26, Pajares and Canelang are aiming for the Sugar

Phil. Barons' star Domingo Canelang bids for a second title at the Sugar Golf and Country Club in Davao City in the men's doubles regular tournament today at Palaro '06.

Barons before when he was one of the toughest players in the Philippines—Sugar Golf and Country Club.

Barons also fielded 10 teams in the men's doubles, singles, and mixed doubles events.

Barons, captain of defending champion, South Korea. Canelang is a formidable team, but he will defend his title for the first time.

Barons and Canelang have won doubles titles in 2004 and 2005, but they will have to win it again to win the double crown.

Too Young To LOSE Your Hair?

"They told me I was too young to lose my hair. Now I have more hair than I ever had. I feel confident and become more active again."

John, 24 years old

BEFORE

When you're young, hair loss can drastically alter your looks and affect your self-esteem. As you lose your hair, your youthful appeal slips away from you. It's not just a matter of vanity. It's a matter of self-esteem. We offer proven treatments for eliminating the main cause of hair loss, restoring hair growth, and preventing hair loss from returning. For extreme cases, you can even add more hair than you lost as naturally as you can with our advanced treatments.

Don't let early hair loss ruin your youth. Call Swenson today and get a free hair and scalp check-up.

The first time I used Petrol Xtra Unlimited, I drove from Boracay to Cebu. Since then, I noticed that my car's engine performed better and my fuel tank lasted longer. So I stopped using my former gas bar brand and switched to Petrol Xtra Unlimited.

"Nice tattoo!

Man, that must have stung.

Looks like it took the whole day too.

Now pan your phone to the left...

I swear, this video calling is phat.

Just look at how clean those lines are.

Zoom in. I want to see more detail.

Oh yeah. That is one sweet tat.

Ok babe, now zoom out all the way!

I want to see where else you got ink.

Yeah yeah yeah yeah."

11 Milestones in 2005

By Lolita Macik, Sanghavi

THE ECONOMY'S STRONGEST SOCIAL insurance expansion continues to break records and to make new conquests in the area of public service. As it nears its 11th year in the health insurance industry, the Philippine Health Insurance Corporation (PhilHealth) takes a brief look at what could very well be its milestones for the past year.

For starters, PhilHealth's efforts were recognized by the national government when February 2005 was declared National Health Insurance Month. Then in March, PhilHealth assumed the administration of the Overseas Workers' Welfare Program from the Overseas Workers Welfare Administration and added it to the Overseas Workers Program. It fully government health insurance programs for all sectors were integrated, allowing for better program management.

Then also, PhilHealth made maturity care benefits and quality assurance steps significant. With the modified National Spontaneous Delivery Incentive, members can now receive drugs, medicines and supplies bought outside the maturity care facility if the provider's claim is less than the benefit package. New units are also added of a walk-through an breastfeeding position, with positive feedback from pregnant women to comply with provision on breastfeeding and breast-feeding.

A Social Weather Station survey in May revealed a 78 percent member satisfaction on the program's transition from Medicaid to PhilHealth and an overall client satisfaction rating of positive 57 percent, providing some basis for improvement.

In June, PhilHealth solidified its partnership with such entities as the Philippine Investment Trust Corporation (PTIC), the Philippine Association for Government, Real Estate and Insurance (PAGRI) and the Association of Government Accountants of the Philippines (AGAP). The partnership with PTIC was an increase in terms of insurance in high quality low cost private insurance and linkages with PAGRI and AGAP were meant to ensure the sustainability of the program through updated premium assessments and timely submission of reports.

Executive Order 452 was released, allowing PhilHealth to reduce the coverage of 1.5 million indigent families. This was prior to the year ended, with more 12.5 million new members with PhilHealth for the re-enrollment of their newly enrolled members.

Another milestone that was noted in 2005 was when the PHIP became the only government program to reach its target group—the low-income women generating income—the FOST and the FOSTA laws.

In the area of quality assurance, PhilHealth specialized in benchmarking for Quality Performance, a map building accredited health care providers to maintain the highest standard of health care delivery.

PhilHealth closed 2005 with 12.5 million active members. This translates to about 34 million beneficiaries, pushing overall coverage to about 61 percent of the 55 million covered IP population in 2005.

On the other hand, total health insurance benefits increased by an unprecedented 14.2 percent over 2004 figures with benefits payments reaching P36 billion in 2005. Collections likewise increased by more than nine percent with total premium collections reaching the P18 billion mark.

Work on PhilHealth's corporate re-engineering was completed. After a very complex, intensive and detailed process, PhilHealth was able to complete its work as an organization that would be able to address the demands of the government and prosper for the future. Former PhilHealth President and CEO Dr. Francisco T. Duque II became the first Secretary of Health with a health financing background while Chief Operating Officer Lorna O. Palatino continued the daunting and challenging task of administering the PHIP to reach its 11th year anniversary.

Clearly, PhilHealth is determined to give its best in the millions who have entrusted to them their health insurance needs. And on 11th year, PhilHealth intends to take a giant leap to greater achievements, taking each step slowly but surely.

64% of RP population now covered by PhilHealth

SIXTY FOUR PERCENT OF THE COUNTRY'S population now enjoy health insurance coverage under the Philippine Health Insurance Corporation (PhilHealth).

In a pre-11th Anniversary media briefing held recently at the Amadeo's Restaurant, Lorna O. Palatino, officer-in-charge of the Office of the PhilHealth President and CEO said that as of the close of 2005, PhilHealth registered a total active membership base of 12.5 million members, or about 34 million beneficiaries nationwide.

"This represents about 64 percent of the entire RP population of 55 million, bringing us closer to our goal of universal coverage," Palatino said. She said that vigorous efforts at marketing the National Health Insurance Program (NHIP) to do the major sectors being served by PhilHealth, coupled by the national and local government support for the program, were the primary factors for this unprecedented membership growth. The beneficiaries include the employed, the individual by paying, the non-paying, the sponsored and the overseas Filipino workers.

Palatino added that the success of the PhilHealth care programs for OFWs from the Overseas Workers Welfare Administration (OWWA) also contributed significantly to the increase in membership base. "Through our Overseas Workers Program, we were able to enroll more than 100,000 members by year-end," she said.

Of the estimated 34.34 million beneficiaries, 41 percent are from the private employed sector while about 24 percent come from the sponsored sector. The government employed sector accounts for 15 percent while the individually paying sector accounts for 14 percent. The OFWA sector accounts for 4.5 percent of the membership base while the non-paying sector accounts for 5 percent of the entire membership distribution.

To date, PhilHealth has the biggest membership base among all other government social security agencies. It is open to self-employed individuals, to retirees and pensioners, to OFWs, as well as to indigent families whose coverage is guaranteed by local government units, private companies and individuals. On the other hand, coverage is mandatory for government and private sector employees, including household employees.

Remembering EDSA

We may have been kids then, but the EDSA Revolution made an impact on our lives, too.

In this special section, 26U remembers EDSA—what it was then and what it means to us now.

Celebrating true people power

How many of us see this holiday for what it really is?

By Angela V. Ignacio
26U Correspondent

TWENTY-SEVEN EDSA REVOLUTION celebrates one of the most important events I have as a kid. I remember crawling downstairs upon the morning and seeing big sand and their college friends making giant yellow paper wheel bands and other paraphernalia.

From barely 5 years old, that old story was something important going on, so I eagerly couldn't wait not to see what it could. Little did I know that history was about to happen, and from that moment a part of it.

Within years later, the same thing happened. Another storm, another spring, another EDSA gathering. In this, I was old enough to understand that I had been the one who was there, and I wasn't so much a part of it.

And now there is one and to be sure, trying to get more solidarity or being seen like a crowd. Suggestions were granted not to be a crowd of thousands, but by a hundred people. Celebrations publicly announced their support for this or that politician to boost their popularity or even to be a crowd politician themselves.

From a public opportunity for the advertising bands and media celebrities were ready to present and put on anyone and anything.

Your geisha reading list

By Pam Pader

THERE IS NO DOUBT THAT THE FILM version of "Memoirs of a Geisha" will spark an...
...the geisha lifestyle, pick up these books and start reading

If the movie has left you intrigued about the geisha lifestyle, pick up these books and start reading

Geisha fever

After a long wait, the film adaptation of Arthur Golden's celebrated novel "Memoirs of a Geisha" will finally hit local theaters today.

25LIFE celebrates this colorful film with a special issue featuring your very own geisha reading list, exquisite kimonos and a hot-Japanese resto that's sure to please your palate.

'Memoirs of a Geisha'

Arthur Golden

If you haven't read the novel on which the movie is based, it would be a good idea to read it first. It's a great read and a great introduction to the geisha world.

Follow the journey of Chiyo, from her days in the fishing village to her transformation into Sayuri, one of the most beautiful geishas in "Memoirs of a Geisha" is a fairy tale, a soap opera, an exquisite story of love, passion and loneliness, greed and ambition, strength and weakness, beauty and ugliness, power and corruption, and more. It's a masterpiece.

The gripping first novel reads like a classic. To say that it's hard to put down is an understatement. Some books are so good that after finishing them you want to turn a page and read again. "Memoirs of a Geisha" is one of them.

'Geisha: A Living Tradition'

Julia Aronson

Julia Aronson's latest is an exploration of the world of the geisha. Although the book's primary focus is on the geisha life, it also explores the lives of the geisha's patrons, the book's authors, and the geisha's world.

With chapters on the geisha's life, the geisha's world, the geisha's patrons, the book's authors, and the geisha's world, it's a masterpiece.

There are many interesting details, including how the changing society affect the book, the geisha's life, and the geisha's world.
